

Message from Associate Editor

Dr. Girish U. Sailor*

Associate Editor, Journal of Integrated Pharmaceutical Sciences

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to the first issue of Journal of Integrated Pharmaceutical Sciences, An official publication of Bhagwan Mahavir University for which I begin my Associate Editor stewardship. I am very aware of the responsibilities that the associate editor's role entails from my previous role in health science journal, and I approach my new role with both enthusiasm and some trepidation!

I along with my other Associate Editor, Dr. Zarna Dedania have taken the challenge of maintaining and enhancing the impact that the journal has in our field. This is determined mainly by the quality and novelty of the science that we publish, which of course depends directly on the quality of the manuscripts that we receive for publication. The authors that submit their papers to this journal are therefore our most important asset, followed closely by our reviewers whose rigorous, fair, and balanced reviews will make sure that we only publish the best science. We look forward to publishing the best papers possible in the field of pharmaceutical sciences from all over the world. Our aim is to be the best scientific journal in the field and to be appreciated as such by authors and readers worldwide.

Although, we intend to have a short editorial, editorial comments, viewpoint, our main focus be on original research articles and also on review articles. We are hoping that the numbers of manuscripts submitted will slowly increase, which will mean that acceptance rate may be reduced progressively.

I wish all current and future readers happy reading and learning from the pages of the Journal of Integrated Pharmaceutical Sciences.

* Correspondence
Dr. Girish U. Sailor
girish.sailor@bmsurat.ac.in