Dean, Research, Bhagwan Mahavir University, Surat, Gujarat, India

The Pharmacy college of Bhagwan Mahavir University, Surat, India launching the Journal of Pharmacy. Congratulations to all of our authors for achieving this distinction.

This April 2021 issue of The Journal of Pharmacy Research brings even more pioneering research content. The five original studies that follow address a variety of significant research topics in Pharmacy. Disseminating the findings of studies to Pharmacy researchers who are constantly striving to improve the quality of their studies remains an important function of the Journal of Integrated Pharmaceutical Sciences.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere gratitude to the scholars on the editorial board and to those in the editorial office for their collective effort and dedication to the Journal of Integrated Pharmaceutical Sciences. We have been extremely impressed by the insightfulness of reviews performed for the Journal, which in many cases have substantially improved the quality of our published articles. Our main focus will continue to be publishing high quality research articles that help pharmaceutical professionals navigate today's complex care environment. I thank all of our submitting authors who have toiled in the production of their work and have made their journal of choice. We look forward to the BMU continuing to provide to this young, burgeoning field an academic voice and a venue for discourse that will move us forward to steady growth, both clinically and intellectually.
